COUNTY NEWS.

Local Items of general interest to a majority of our readers, especially distant friends.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.—Mail your items early so they will reach our office not later than Tuesday morning—Monday if possible. News received after that will not be published unless of unusual importance. Advertise no one's business, and write on one side of the paper only.

STILLWATER.

James Bush bought a cow last week from Singer Rose for a private price.

Revs. Jeff Brewer and James Tolson preached to a good sized crowd at Laurel Sunday.

Mrs. Robert J. Rose went to Hazel Green today to spend several days visiting her children and other relatives.

W. R. Foreman, a driller on the Brewer farm, returned from Campton today, where he had been to see his wife over Sunday.

The twenty-two-months-old baby of Rev. Jeff Brewer and wife and the baby of R. L. Rose and wife are very low with something like flux.

Rev. John C. Barker, of Stillwater Bridge, took dinner with Rev. Jeff Brewer Sunday, and called on your correspondent in the afternoon.

If nothing happens to prevent drilling the oil well on the Brewer farm will be completed tomorrow evening. They are down to a depth of 1,200 feet, and will reach oil sand this afternoon.

George Beasley, of Lacy creek, broke up house-keeping some time ago, and gave his youngest daughter, Miss Ida, to S. C. Rose and wife to raise. The girl is 11 years and very intelligent and industrious, and says she likes her new home.

The following persons dined with Jeff Edwards and family last Sunday: S. C. Rose, wife and mother, Ida Beasley, D. B. Tyra and boys, Erna and Herman, Geo. Beasley, of Lacy creek; Nathan L. Combs, of Landsaw; Joseph A. Rose, of Hazel Green; Laura Maloney, of the Buchanan fork, and Etta Maloney and children, of Big Branch. All spent an enjoyable afternoon.

J. H. Fowler, district superintendent of the Bagland Division for the New Domain Oil & Gas Company, has been here for the past six or seven days looking after the company's interest of putting down a hole on the Brewer farm. William Reeves and son, Clarke, were released from doing any further work Friday morning of last week by Mr. Fowler, and took the train at Campton the same evening for their home at Mt. Sterling.

Sam Spencer, one of the firm of Spencer and Marshall, and the same man who drilled two test wells some time since on the Trapp fork of Stillwater, one on the G. W. Lovelace farm and one on the Leonard Tutt farm, will be here this evening, and will run the afternoon shift. Noah Creech will dress tools for Mr. Spencer. Spencer is an expert driller and tool dresser. Superintendent Fowler has made a wise selection for the company in employing him, as he is a man with long experience in the oil business.

TORTURED ON A HORSE.

"For ten years I couldn't ride a horse without being in torture from piles," writes L. S. Napier, of Russell, Ky., "when all doctors and other remedies failed, Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured me." Infalible for piles, burns, scalds, cuts, boils, fever sores, eczema, salt rheum, corns, etc. 25c. Guaranteed by all dealers.

STAMPER BRANCH.

Mrs. Frances Stamper is confined to her room at present.

Mrs. Vance Arnett was a guest of Miss Lillie Stamper Sunday.

Leslie and Charlie Stamper went to Hazel Green Saturday on business.

Mrs. Sarah Belle Stamper was a guest of Mrs. Nannie Stamper last Sunday.

Mrs. George Brooks and family spent Sunday with Mrs. Tom Stamper and family.

Rollie Clark and Drew Stamper made a business trip to Campton one day recently.

Boone Stamper had the misfortune of falling from a wagon Saturday, hurting himself very badly.

Rev. Jeff Brewer and a Mr. Tolson preached at Laurel Sunday. Everybody seemed more civil than usual.

Mrs. Laura Stamper and daughter, Lillie, and Fred, Leslie and Charlie Stamper attended church on Laurel Sunday.

Green Minix stopped over with L. G. Stamper Thursday night. He was on his way to Mt. Sterling with some cattle and sheep.

James Cox and family passed through here en route from Lacy creek, where Mrs. Cox had been visiting her parents, George Byrd and wife.

A Mr. Eversole and sons, from Perry county, stopped over Tuesday night with L. G. Stamper. They were en route to Mt. Sterling with a large drove of sheep.

Frank Lacy, of Insko, was a guest of George Brooks Thursday night. While here he swapped cows with Tom Stamper and purchased a horse from Drew Stamper.

A NIGHT RIDER'S RAID.

The worst night riders are calomel, croton oil or aloes pills. They raid your bed to rob you of rest. Not so with Dr. King's New Life Pills. They never distress or inconvenience, but always cleanse the system, curing colds, headache, constipation, malaria, etc. all dealers.

TOLIVER.

Rollie Stamper was a guest of Roy McNabb Sunday.

Mary Stamper was a guest of O. W. McNabb and family Sunday.

Edgar McNabb and wife were guests of R. A. Childers Sunday.

Dorsie Stamper and Rollie Hadix were guests of Carl Stamper Sunday.

Mack Oldfield and wife took dinner with J. B. Stamper and wife Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. McNabb are visiting the latter's brother, James Motley, of Montgomery county.

Rev. I. L. Honaker, of this place, preached at Sandfield Sunday to a very good crowd.

Byrd Spradling, of Jackson, passed through here Thursday en route to Maytown to visit his mother, Mrs. Sarah E. Wilson.

J. H. Spencer, who has been here visiting his granddaughter, Mrs. Taylor Spencer, returned to his home, at Jackson, Monday.

TRENT.

J. H. Barker, of near this place, visited his son, Courtney, of Consolation, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Creech, of Big Branch, were guests of Lige Creech and family Saturday night.

Miss Ida Beasley left one day last week to make her home with S. C. Rose and wife, of Stillwater.

Miss Lillie Stamper, of Stamper Branch, passed through here Monday evening en route to Hazel Green.

Miss Stella Edwards, who has been staying with her uncle, S. C. Rose, on Stillwater, returned home Thursday.

Edgar Edwards, of this place, and his brother-in-law, J. W. Maloney, of Big Branch, left Saturday for Mt. Sterling.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Crucey, of Lacy creek, passed through here Saturday en route to Big Branch to visit the latter's sister, Mrs. Taylor Center.

Miss Lula and Jack Johnson and a Miss Trent, of Breathitt county, were visiting friends and relatives in this section last Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Ettie Maloney and two children, Pearl and Roy, of Big Branch, were visiting her father, J. D. Edwards, and family, Saturday and Sunday.

SUNFLOWER.

$100 REWARD! $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by all Druggists. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

CAMPTON.

Miss Sarah Combs, of Stillwater, was visiting in town recently.

Quite a crowd attended the quarterly meeting at Bear Den last week.

T. H. Byrd, of Frankfort, has been visiting homefolks for a few days past.

Oliver Kash left Sunday to open his school at Hampton. We wish him success.

We have been having so much rain that the farmers are behind with their crops.

Miss Catherine Seitz, of West Liberty, is visiting Miss Sadie Cartmell this week.

B. Cox, who has been gone for some time working on the pipe line, returned home last Tuesday.

The school will begin here today. Bruce Rose, James Drake and Verna Hanks are the teachers.

Mrs. F. B. Hanks, of this place, has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. L. Byrd, of Winchester, for the past week.

Mrs. J. T. Warden and two sons, of Ballentine, Miss., are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Gosney, of this place.

DEWDROP AND SUNBEAM.

When the stomach fails to perform its functions, the bowels become deranged, the liver and the kidneys congested causing numerous diseases. The stomach and liver must be restored to a healthy condition and Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets can be depended upon to do it. Easy to take and most effective. Sold by all dealers.

THE STAR OF HAZEL GREEN.

BY SAM WILSON.

Know'st thou this Star whose beautiful light
Shines in this place so wondrous bright;
A sparkling gem, a ray divine,
All o'er this fair Mountainous clime?

Know'st thou this Star?

Know'st thou this Star, this human Star,
Whose beauty is matchless near or far?
The liquid light of her clear eyes
Reveals a glimpse of Paradise.

Know'st thou this Star?

Know'st thou this Star whose pleasant life
Makes sweet peace take the place of strife?
And every cloud must disappear,
Revealing sunshine everywhere.

Know'st thou this Star?

Know'st thou this Star who at her birth
Brought joy celestial on this Earth?
And all who know her on this scene
Stamp her the Star of Hazel Green.

Know'st thou this Star?

LANDSAW.

T. A. Fields, representing the Joseph G. Reed Dry Goods Co., was at this place Monday.

James Whisman and two sons, of near Torrent, visited H. L. Whisman, Saturday and Sunday.

Several wagons passed through here Monday moving parties from Scranton to the Hurst boundary of timber.

John Taulbee took his daughter, Lillie, to the doctor at Hazel Green, Saturday. Some trouble with the foot.

Rollin Combs having started into school, N. L. Combs has taken his place and is now hauling ties to Helechwah.

John W. Chambers and wife and Len Dalton, who have been in Middletown, Ohio, for some time, returned home Sunday.

W. L. Kash, who has been at the farm for the past week superintending making hay, left for Irvine to attend Circuit court.

Hiram and Harry Swango, two of the county's most progressive farmers, sold one of the best bunches of cattle last week that ever left mountains for Mt. Sterling market.

Monroe Woods, while cutting oats for W. H. Chambers one day last week, fell and his hand striking the blade of the cradle inflicted a very bad wound and probably a serious one.

The protracted meeting which has been going on here for some time, conducted by Revs. Isaacs, Murphy and Madden, closed the 19th. A great deal of interest seems to have been aroused.

John C. M. Day was here the 19th. He is very anxious to extend the M. C. railroad, but it seems that the people are slow to give the right of way and we do not believe he will go to work unless the right of way is given.

W. H. Chambers, county superintendent, was at Campton Friday and Saturday conducting an examination for teachers' certificates. Only four applicants were present, among whom was Grant Rose, of this place, who was granted a first class certificate.

JULY 20.

ANON.

The world's most successful medicine for bowel complaints is Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It has relieved more pain and suffering, and saved more lives than any other medicine in use. Invaluable for children and adults. Sold by all dealers.

For Sale—Two of the Pieratt cottages for less than the lumber and lot can be bought. One acre in each lot; five rooms in each house. Apply at this office.

Life 100,000 Years Ago.

Scientists have found in a cave in Switzerland bones of men, who lived 100,000 years ago, when life was in constant danger from wild beasts. Today the danger, as shown by A. W. Brown, of Alexander, Mo., is largely from deadly disease. "If it had not been for Dr. King's New Discovery, which cured me, I could not have lived," he writes, "suffering as I did from a severe lung trouble and stubborn cough." To cure sore lungs, colds, obstinate coughs, and prevent pneumonia, it's the best medicine on earth. 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by all dealers. Trial bottle free.

Sees Mother Grow Young.

"It would be hard to overstate the wonderful change in mother since she began to use Electric Bitters," writes Mrs. W. L. Gilpatrick, of Danforth, Mo. "Although past 70 she seems really to be growing young again. She suffered untold misery from dyspepsia for 20 years. At last she could neither eat, drink nor sleep. Doctors gave her up and all remedies failed till Electric Bitters worked such wonder for health." They invigorate all vital organs, cure liver and kidney troubles, induce sleep, impart strength and appetite. Only 50c at all dealers.

Ed Callahan, who was thought to have been mortally wounded at his home in Breathitt county, a few weeks since, has so far recovered as to be able to attend to his business again. He says he don't believe the Lord will suffer him to die by the hand of an assassin's bullet because his intentions are just and right.

Just as we go to press it is learned that a few men along the route of the proposed extension of the Mountain Central railroad refuse to grant the right of way. We also know who they are, but we are satisfied they stand in their own light. They may cause the road to be built on a different line altogether and forever after they will have cause to regret their action. The writer knows of an instance in Kentucky where a prominent town lost one of the most important railroads in the state by just such nearsighted selfishness, and we appeal to all along the line of the proposed extension, whatever the route they may take, to try and be liberal with the railroad projectors or they may forever have cause to regret their action.

He Wants to Know Why.

Brother Cooper: The July 8th issue of THE HERALD was particularly excellent and I extend my congratulations. Even to me this far from base there were bits of statement and news that were very interesting. Out of them all I want more definite information about the following, to-wit:

1—Your Toliver correspondent says that F. P. Clark has forty acres of corn on his farm and just two stumps in the forty acres, and I would like to know what he has the two stumps for. Surely if Mr. Clark could get all out but two he could get those two—unless he had some special use for them. But of what use are they? I might make some invidious remarks on a farmer having stumps in his cornfield ordinarily, but I won't till I know whether Farmer Clark has his two there for a purpose or not. Your correspondent adds the query: "Who can beat that?" Is it to be inferred from this that this is the rule among Wolfe county farmers to have stumps in their cornated fields? If they do, why do they have them? If they don't want them, why don't they dynamite them off the earth? Is dynamite any more expensive than the extra labor and bother of getting around a stump in working a field at seedtime and harvest? How much good ground will one stump keep out of cultivation? If it takes a farmer all day to loaf around a grocery, or go hunting and get nothing, how long will it take him to blow a stump out of the ground?

2—How many of Wolfe county's people read your editorial on bad roads and made up their minds to do something for improvements? Why would farmers and others rather spend twice as much for wagon and harness repairs, not to mention wear and tear on stock and teamsters, than they would for putting roads in good condition? Why do they choose to take three or four times as long to get anywhere in discomfort and danger, over bad roads, than to get there quickly and safely and comfortably over good roads? Is the kind of a man who will earn $1.20 a day with a four mule team ever likely to be the kind of a man who will wake up and help build a road that will enable him to quadruple his returns? Why are fairly intelligent people so much more afraid of a tax than they are of a good road? Is it bad business for people to spend any amount of money if they get back five times as much as they spend? If a good road makes a farm accessible at all times, and increases the value of the land and the product, say, twenty five per cent, can't the farmer afford to give up five per cent of that to get the other twenty? Isn't ignorance a greater tax than the road tax? If a community has been stuck in the mud for fifty years or more, is that any sign that it will have to stay stuck? Whose fault is it, the mud's, or the community's?

3—You say in a local notice of the extension of the Day Railroad to Hazel Green that you can not see why any man along the line should not give the right of way. Isn't it because the man is too ignorant to know what a railroad will do towards increasing his wealth and his opportunities? Or is it because he is a hog and wants to get all he can in hand, no matter how much benefit he is keeping from his neighbors? Isn't he the same sort who would not fill a mudhole on a dirt road that he drove over a dozen times a day, because somebody else who drove over it once a week might receive some of the advantage without paying him for his work in filling it up? Do the men who block the way of railroads into a county do anything for the good of that county? Don't they always take more than they get? Are they the kind of men to build up a community? Wouldn't the community be better off if a locomotive ran over them and their remains were planted?

Please answer me these questions. I don't suppose Wolfe county people care to have the information, but I want it. Of course, if they want it, I shall be glad to share with them. Yours,
W. J. LAMPTON,
New York City, July 13.

Virgin Timber From Kentucky Forests.

Dispatches from Frankfort give the following bit of news: "The old court house in this city, erected and put in use in 1839, is being dismantled on the inside for the purpose of reconstruction. The walls were stripped of their casing and the old flooring was taken up. The 'sleepers' and flooring joists are all of the best quality of yellow poplar, such as can not be secured in this country any more even at a fancy price, and are hewn from the native tree. The casing is of the finest grade of white pine, which has long ago disappeared from the forest of Kentucky. "The lumber being taken out of the old court house would be very valuable if it were not that there are many nails in it, for it is as sound as a dollar."

Senatorial Convention.

Pursuant to a call of the chairman of the 34th Senatorial district, composed of the counties of Breathitt, Magoffin, Morgan, Owsley and Wolfe, the Committee of said district met at Cannel City, Ky., July 14, for the purpose of setting the time and prescribing the manner in which a Democratic candidate for the State Senate shall be nominated. It was ordered by said committee that a mass meeting be held at the county seat of each county comprising said district on Saturday, July 31, at 1 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of nominating such candidate, and that the Chairman of the respective counties shall call the meeting to order and proceed to take the vote of the Democrats present in such convention, and the candidate receiving the majority of votes present shall receive the electoral vote of said county, and the Chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee for said county shall certify said vote, and delegates shall be appointed to cast same at the general convention which convenes at Jackson, Ky., Aug. 4, 1909, at 1 o'clock p. m.

All known Democrats possessing the legal qualifications of a voter in the county wherein he offers to vote shall be allowed to participate in said convention.

O. W. WOMACK, Ch'm.
A. B. COX, Sec'y.

STUDY OF FORESTRY.

Meeting Held at Frankfort for the Furtherance of Movement in Kentucky.

Frankfort, Ky., July 16.—Plans for more extensive study of the forestry condition of Kentucky and the utilization of the timber produced by Kentuckians were mapped out at a conference were between H. S. Sackett, in charge of wood utilization of the United States Forest Service; R. Clifford Hall, Forest Assistant of the Forest Service of the United States; Commissioner of Agriculture M. C. Rankin. Mr. Hall has had charge of the research work of the forestry service in the mountains of Kentucky for the past two years. He plans to complete the work this year, finishing up the investigation of Kentucky's timber resources. Sackett will spend some time in Kentucky studying the utilization of Kentucky's lumber products, visiting the sawmills and other industries which use the raw Kentucky products, and reporting back to his department.

The State Board of Agriculture, at its recent session, appropriated $250 of its $2,000 appropriation for the publication of the result of Hall's work in Kentucky. This will leave a balance of $1,750 to pay the expenses of the work. As the national government duplicates the state appropriation for this forestry work, the sum of $3,500 will be available this year for the completion of the work in Kentucky.

Kentucky to Show Corn.

M. C. Rankin, commissioner in the department of agriculture, labor and statistics, has been appointed vice president for Kentucky of the National Corn Association and announces that the state will make an exhibit at the National Corn Exposition in Omaha, December 6 to 18.

Arrangements were made at a conference of Corn Association officials with Mr. Rankin in Frankfort this week and it is expected Kentucky grain will take a high place and win many of the prizes in the list worth $50,000 which is offered at the show in Omaha. Mr. Rankin has one hundred or more boys in Kentucky growing corn from pure seed. They will show this in an exhibit to be held at the Kentucky state fair grounds and then the best will go to the National show.

As is well known Kentucky stands high as a corn producing state when acreage is considered. It is the hope of Mr. Rankin and his co-workers to bring the average yield per acre up to among the best in the United States.

Your Hair Contrary?

Is it inclined to run away? Don't punish it with a cruel brush and comb! Feed it, nourish it, save it with Ayer's Hair Vigor, new improved formula. Then your hair will remain at home, on your head, where it belongs. An elegant dressing. Keeps the scalp healthy.

Does not change the color of the hair.

Formula with each bottle. Show it to your doctor. Ask him about it, then do as he says.

We certainly believe this, or we would not say so. Ayer's Hair Vigor, as now made from our new improved formula, is a great preparation for the hair and scalp. Stops falling hair. Cures dandruff. Promotes the growth of hair.

THE HERALD.

DRINK WAINSCOTT'S ROMA KOLA

J. P. Jones, of Lexington, has registered at the Swango House.

The news came here Monday that Lloyd Finch, of Maytown, is dangerously ill of typhoid fever.

Miss Daisy Day and her niece, Miss Roseana Kash, left Tuesday morning for Trenton for a few days recreation.

For Sale—A Victor graphophone with 30 records; will be sold for less than the cost of the records. Apply at this office.

Bro. Weber comments on the courteous attention he is receiving. The attendance is increasing. His sermons are excellent.

Charley Thompson, of Jackson, is here doing some paper hanging, painting and decorating for J. T. Day's Hazel Green Hotel.

J. H. Orear, bookkeeper for the Swann-Day Lumber Co., Clay City, is here helping to straighten out the business of J. Taylor Day.

E. T. Rose, Miss Minnie Hurst, A. R. Marshall and Miss Sallie Hurst took supper at the Swango House Wednesday, and left for Campton.

Miss Nellie Evans, who has been in Virginia for a year past, but recently the guest of Miss Mary Pieratt, of Richmond, came home Saturday last.

Dr. Nickell reports that Clint Taylor is dangerously ill of typhoid fever, and that Aunt Liza Nickell, who has been sick for some time, is now very dangerously ill.

Misses Sallie and Minnie Hurst, daughters of Wm. L. Hurst, of Campton, accompanied by Elisha Rose and Albert R. Marshall, were guests of the Day House Tuesday.

E. T. Rose, who recently returned from Texas, accompanied by his sister, visited Hazel Green Sunday. Mr. Rose will return to Texas, where he will make his future home.

Misses Lucy Gillespie and Mattie Oldfields, of Consolation, gave our office a very pleasant call last Friday evening. Call again, girls, you are always welcome.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets gently stimulate the liver and bowels to expel poisonous matter, cleanse the system, cure constipation and sick headache. Sold by all dealers.

Dr. W. G. Lockhart, the dentist, writes us that he will be at Grassy Creek July 21, and remain ten days, prepared to do all kinds of dental work. If your teeth need attention don't fail to consult him.

If you want a fine razor—as good as you can buy for $2—call this at office and get one for $1. We also have a few watches, good time keepers, that can be had for $1 each. Don't wait until supply is gone.

Jim Faulker last week bought a cow from Talt Hall, of Lacy creek, at $30; one from Jack Cox, at $35, and one from Curt Bush, at $27.50. Jim says he is getting ready to run a dairy by the time the Mountain Central come to Hazel Green.

Express Their Appreciation.

There perhaps was never a happier meeting of teacher and pupils than that of Prof. Cord and his old students while on his recent visit to Hazel Green after an absence of three years. All deeply expressed their appreciation for the opportunity to see him again. Prof. Cord is a man who has molded as much or more mountain character than any other man of Kentucky today.

Friday morning the public school chapel was well nigh filled with old students and friends to hear an address by Prof. Cord, which was full of thought and inspiration to the older students, and simple and touching to the little ones. At the close he was greeted by a hearty and prolonged applause, after which Bro. Jim Little spoke, and then followed an address by Hon. W. O. Mize. The latter addresses were, as the former, delivered from a heart full of love for the mountain boys and girls.

Friday evening Miss Carrie Lee Rose entertained Prof. Cord and many old students. It was an evening which none present are likely to ever forget. Many scenes and incidents of the old days were rehearsed. Many, if not all, the old students and graduates who are now scattered in fields of active service were remembered that night. Voices faltered, eyes often filled with tears, and faces lit up with smiles as the old days were brought to memory again.

How dear to our hearts are the scenes of our school days.

When fond recollection presents them to view!

Saturday morning Prof. Cord left for his home in Mt. Sterling carrying with him greetings and good wishes for his family, also a box of beautiful flowers and mountain ferns gathered and arranged by the girls for Mrs. Cord.

Come again, Professor, Hazel Green ever extends to you a hearty welcome.

A FORMER STUDENT.

Making His Mark.

J. Glass Nease, who has been attending the Richmond Normal school for some time, spent several days visiting friends in our town. He informed the writer that he has accepted the position of principal of the Rochester Graded school, in Butler county, and will soon begin his work at that place. He is a graduate of the Hazel Green Academy, and this is but another instance of the great benefit this institution is to the rising generation of Eastern Kentucky.

Pays For Two.

Kitchens, Ohio, July 15, '09.

Spencer Cooper, Hazel Green, Ky. Dear Sir: Enclosed you will find $2.00, which is to pay for two subscriptions to THE HERALD, one for myself and the other for my brother, J. C. B. Hemmick, Simons, Breathitt county, Ky. My brother is crippled and not able to work, and I love to send him the good old HERALD, so he can read all the news of dear old Kentucky when he can't work.

Mrs. MOLLIE EVANS.

Will Locate in Texas.

Elisha T. Rose, the present master commissioner, who has been in Texas for the past several months, in a talk with "Our Man About Town," a few days since, said he would locate in Texas within the next ten days for permanent residence. Elisha is a young lawyer of high integrity, and while the people in his native county will hate to lose him, those with whom he is to locate will find him all we say.

Notice of Application.

I, Robert Tipton, who was convicted of the offense of manslaughter in the Circuit Court of Magoffin county at its June term, 1906, having served my time, now ask Governor Wilson or Lieut. Governor Cox, as the case may be, for restoration to citizenship, and all who object will notify the Governor, and state in writing, any objection.

ROBERT TIPTON, Sellers, Ky.

Births.

Dr. Nickell reports the birth of a boy to the wife of Buck Goff, at the mouth of Nigger branch, in Breathitt, Friday; also, a boy to the wife of Walter Maloney, of Lacy creek, Monday, July 19.

Born, to the wife of Will Tom Wheatley, a 10-pound boy, July 19; also, to the wife of Sam Lowe, a boy, July 17; also, to the wife of Kelly Jordan, a girl, July 20, Dr. Taylor Center accoucheur.

Dr. Williams reports the birth of a boy to the wife of John S. Pieratt, of the Murphy fork, Sunday, July 18.

Wolfe County Teachers' Institute.

The Wolfe County Teachers' Institute will convene at Campton the first Monday in August, it being the 2nd day, and all teachers are hereby notified to attend the whole session or I am ordered to revoke their certificates.

Friday will be "Trustees' Day" and all the trustees in the county ought to be present.

To the teachers who have been lodging the Institute no excuse will be accepted.

Yours for better schools,
W. H. CHAMBERS,
Co. Supt.

Cecil Bros. will be in their new store by Monday, August 2, prepared to sell goods cheaper than ever because they have no house rent to pay. This building is a monument to the skill of George Rice and Taylor Whaley, the contractors and builders, and is a model storehouse in every respect. No store in town is better arranged for the display of merchandise or the convenience of customers.

C. L. Hemmick, representing the Fidelity Guarantee Co., Louisville, is a guest of the Day House. He is soliciting stock in his company, which, by the way, judging from the names of the stockholders he has listed, must be a preferred investment. It is of no interest to us, individually, but when good things are going we like to know that our people have some of it.

Herbert Nickell's wife, on the Nickell fork of Grassy, was thrown from a mule Sunday afternoon, and it was at first thought she was seriously injured. Dr. Taylor Center was summoned and after examination announced that while her injuries were painful there were no bones broken, and aside from soreness she would soon be up and about.

Teething children have more or less diarrhoea, which can be controlled by giving Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. All that is necessary is to give the prescribed dose after each operation of the bowels more than natural and then castor oil to cleanse the system. It is safe and sure. Sold by all dealers.

Tuesday last John Henry Campbell let Green and Mort Phillips have a job of logging out a boundary of timber on the farm of S. M. Tyler, consisting of white oak, chestnut and beech. There is about 75,000 feet of timber in the deal, which is financed by J. T. Day.

Soreness of the muscles, whether induced by violent exercise or injury, is quickly relieved by the free application of Chamberlain's Liniment. This liniment is equally valuable for muscular rheumatism, and always affords quick relief. Sold by all dealers.

Farm for Sale.

Farm of 100 acres, 30 acres in timber, balance in grass and cultivation; scarcely any rocks; all fenced and cross fenced; everlasting fine water; plenty of good fruit; four-room house, cellar, outbuildings. Twenty-five acres of tobacco land, if put in tobacco would pay for the farm the first year. Close to town, good schools and churches. Price, reserving five acres (part of which is in ginseng), $2,000.

KENTUCKY KERNELS

Carefully Collated and Concisely Chronicled.

While hunting squirrels in Hardin county Clarence Masters accidentally shot and killed himself.

Mrs. William Ryan, aged 50 years, died at her home near Elizabethtown from the effects of headache tablets which she had taken.

Fourteen mules, valued at $250 each, ate parais green on the farm of Ellis & Wilson, in Daviess county, and five are dead with no hopes for the rest.

The largest farm in the world devoted to growing gooseberries is located in Hardin county and is owned by W. H. Rahm. This year it produced 8,500 bushels.

Everett Robinson, aged 21 years, formerly of Catlettsburg, became despondent over a love affair and blew out his brains at Aberdeen, Wash., where he had gone about a year ago. He was raised in Prestonsburg.

Miss Mary Ryan, the victim of the mysterious assault and attempt at poisoning at the Dunleavy home recently, went before the grand jury at Lexington Friday last and asked that body to make a thorough investigation of the case.

The Business Men's Club of Mt. Sterling has purchased about four acres of land and deeded it to Prof. Wm. H. Cord, who will at once begin the erection of a college building thereon. It will be known as the Mt. Sterling Collegiate Institute.

While driving along the road near Nicholasville the vehicle containing Mrs. Will Dickerson and her daughter, Mrs. Theodore Lewis, was run into by an auto containing two men. Both women were thrown out and seriously injured. The men made no effort to stop and assist the injured women.

Brown Barnes and Miss Brack Crouch were married at the home of the bridegroom, at Sharpsburg, after a courtship of nearly fifty years. Mr. Barnes is a well-to-do farmer and has been an invalid for the past three years and lived with his sister, who died suddenly. The wedding took place immediately after her death.

Two convicts escaped from the penitentiary at Frankfort Saturday. They were Dave Dossier, sent from Lexington for stealing a bicycle, and Frank Solomon, sent from Putaski county for horse breaking. The men were working outside the walls when they sneaked behind a pile of lumber and were gone before the guard noticed their absence.

Boyd Hatfield, a well known school teacher of Pike county, and James Hopkins, of Beaver, in Floyd county, were run down and killed by a Norfolk and Western railroad locomotive at Matewan, W. Va., last week. Cassius M. Whitt, a former resident of Pikeville, was seriously injured. The three men were walking along the track when the accident occurred.

After being out 45 minutes the jury in the Berry Simpson case returned a verdict of guilty. Berry Simpson, Geo. Stanley and Elisha Slavin were given life sentences in the penitentiary on a charge of murder, while Berry Simpson, his son Jesse, George Stanley, Elisha and Oliver Slavin were found guilty of conspiracy and disobeying a court injunction. Harvey Simpson, another son of Berry Simpson, was acquitted. These are the parties who incited a riot at the mines near Stearns last Christmas in which several United States officials were killed, and who were tried in the U. S. district court at Richmond.

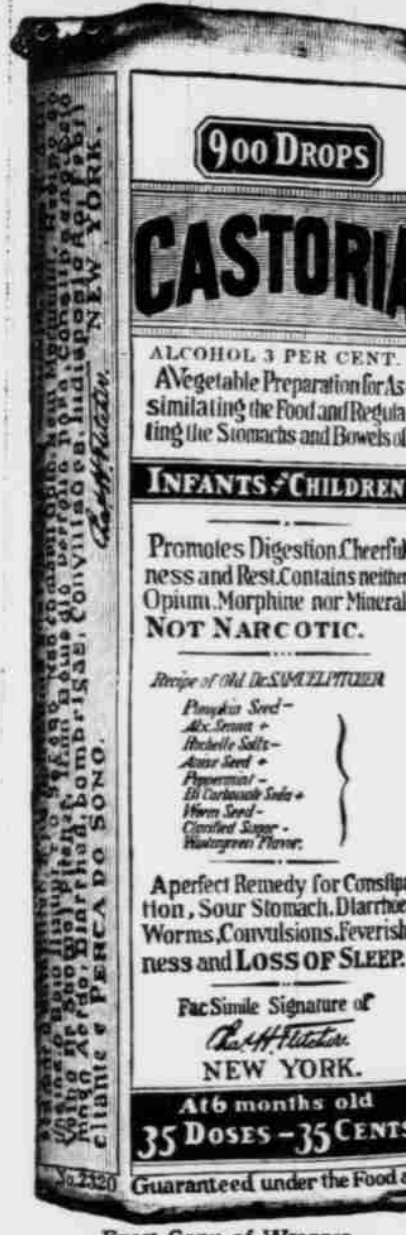

From a recent issue of the Big Sandy News we clip the following: "It seldom falls to the unlucky lot of any man to receive two penitentiary terms, on different charges, at one time, but such is the fate that has befallen Jeff Evans, who at the recent term of the Martin Circuit court was handed out two convictions of one year each in the state penitentiary. Eight years ago Evans, then a boy, stabbed Ira Maynard. He was arrested, placed in jail and indicted, but broke jail and fled to Virginia. The case remained on the Martin Circuit court docket. Soon after reaching Virginia he killed a man and was given a long term in the penitentiary of that state, but after a time his father managed to obtain his release and brought him back to his Martin county home, where, a few days after, he stabbed Rush Muncy. He was promptly arrested and placed in jail and indictments were brought against him and in the trials of the two cases he was given one year in the Frankfort penitentiary—one year in each case.

NOTICE.

G. T. Center, County Judge of Wolfe county, and G. B. Stamper, County Attorney: You are hereby notified that I will make application to the Governor of Kentucky, on August 10, 1909, to pardon Frank Center, who was convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary for one year, at the April term, 1909, of Wolfe Circuit court.

POLLY of the CIRCUS

By MARGARET HAYES

Copyright, 1922, by Dodd, Mead and Company

"Not as long as she wishes to stay."
"You won't?" Strong saw that he must try a new attack. He came close to Douglas and spoke with a marked insinuation. "If you was a friend to the girl, you wouldn't want the whole congregation a-patterin' fingers at her."

"What do you mean?"
"I mean that you're livin' here alone with her and it looks bad—bad for the girl and bad for you—and folks is talkin'."

"Are you trying to tell me that my people are evil minded enough to think that?" Douglas stepped. He could not answer the question. "I don't believe it," he concluded shortly.

"You'll be made to believe it if you don't get rid of that girl."
"Do you believe it?" He turned upon the little man at his side. "Do you believe it, Elverston?"

Elverston had been so accustomed to strong monopolizing the conversation that he had become hopelessly lost as the discussion went on, and the sudden appeal to him all but paralyzed his power of speech. He was still gur-

"Four after," shouted Strong, "and that girl is comin' the deacon's bread!"
gling and spluttering when Strong interrupted impatiently.

"It makes no difference whether we believe it or not. We're goin' to do our duty by the church, and that girl must leave or—"

"Or I must," Douglas placed out Strong's phrase for himself. "That threat doesn't frighten me at all, deacon. After what you have said I should refuse to remain in this church—the deacon stepped forward eagerly—"were it not that I realize more than ever before how much you need me, how much you ignorant, narrow minded creatures need to be taught the meaning of true Christianity." The deacon was plainly disappointed.

"Is it possible?" gasped Elverston weakly.

"Well, what are you goin' to do about it?" asked Strong when he could trust himself to speak again.

"I shall do what is best for Miss Polly," said the pastor quietly, but firmly.
He turned away to show that the interview was at an end. Strong followed him. Douglas pointed to the gate with a meaning not to be mistaken. "Good afternoon, deacon."

Strong hesitated. He looked at the pastor, then at the gate, then at the pastor again. "I'll go," he shouted,
"but it ain't the end!" He slammed
the gate behind him.

"Quite so, quite so," chirped Elver-ston, not having the slightest idea of what he was saying. He saw the frigid expression on the pastor's face;
he coughed behind his hat and followed Strong.

CHAPTER X.

DOUGLAS dropped wearily on to the rustic bench. He sat with drooped head and unseeing eyes. He did not hear Polly as she scurried down the path, her arms filled with autumn leaves. She glanced at him, dropped the bright colored foliage and slipped quickly to the nearest tree. "One, two, three for Mr. John!" she cried as she patted the bushy brown trunk.

"Is that you, Polly?" he asked absently.

"Now it's your turn to catch me," she said, lingering near the tree. The pastor was again lost in thought.
"Aren't you going to play any more?"
There was a shade of disappointment in her voice. She came slowly to his side.

"Sit here, Polly," he answered gravely, pointing to a place on the bench.
"I want to talk to you."

"Now I've done something wrong," she pouted. She gathered up her gar-lands and brought them to a place near his feet, ignoring the seat at his side. "You might just as well tell me and get it over."

"You couldn't do anything wrong," he answered, looking down at her.
"Oh, yes, I could, and I've done it."
A long pause followed.

"What have you there?" he asked,
trying to gain time and not knowing

"Now I've done something wrong," she pouted.

how to broach the subject that in justice to her must be discussed.

"Some leaves to make garlands for the social," Polly answered more cheerfully. "Would you mind holding this?"
She gave him one end of a string of leaves.

"Where are the children?"

"Gone home."

"You like the children very much, don't you, Polly?" Douglas was striving for a path that might lead them to the subject that was troubling him.

"Oh, no, I don't like them; I love them," She looked at him with tender eyes.

"You're the greatest baby of all." A puzzled line came between his eyes as he studied her more closely. "And yet you're not such a child, are you, Polly? You're quite grown up—almost a young lady." He looked at her from a strange, unwelcome point of view.
She was all of that as she sat at his feet, yearning and slender and fair, at the turning of her seventeenth year.

"I wonder how you would like to go away"—her eyes met his in terror—"away to a great school," he added quickly, flinching from the very first hurt that he had inflicted, "where there are a lot of other young ladies."

"Is it a place where you would be?"
She looked up at him anxiously. She wondered if his "show" was about to "move on."

"I'm afraid not," Douglas answered, smiling in spite of his heavy heart.

"I wouldn't like any place without you," she said decidedly and seemed to consider the subject dismissed.

"But if it was for your good," Douglas persisted.

"It could never be for my good to leave you."

"But just for a little while," he pleaded. How was she ever to understand? How could he take from her the sense of security that he had purposely taught her to feel in his house?

"Not even for a moment," Polly answered, with a decided shake of her head.

"But you must get ahead in your studies," he argued.

She looked at him anxiously. She was beginning to be alarmed at his persistence.

"Maybe I've been playing too many periscopic games."

"Not periscopic, Polly, promiscuous."

"Promiscuous," she repeated halting-
ly. "What does that mean?"

"Indiscriminate." He rubbed his forehead as he saw the puzzled look on her face. "Mixed up," he explained, more simply.

"Our game wasn't mixed up." She was thinking of the one to which the widow had objected. "Is it promiscuous to catch somebody?"

"It depends upon whom you catch,"
he answered, with a dry, whimsical smile.

"Well, I don't catch anybody but the children." She looked up at him with serious, inquiring eyes.

"Never mind, Polly. Your games aren't promiscuous." She did not bear him. She was searching for her book.

"Is this what you are looking for?"
he asked, drawing the missing article from his pocket.

"Oh!" cried Polly, with a flush of embarrassment. "Mandy told you."

"You've been working a long time on that."

"I thought I might help you if I learned everything you told me," she answered timidly. "But I don't suppose I could."

"I can never tell you how much you help me, Polly."

"Do I?" she cried eagerly. "I can help more if you will only let me. I can teach a bigger class in Sunday school now. I got to the book of Ruth today."

"You did?" He pretended to be astonished. He was anxious to encourage her enthusiasm.

"Um-hum!" she answered solemnly.
A dreamy look came into her eyes.

"Do you remember the part that you read to me the first day I came?" He nodded. He was thinking how care free they were; that day. How impossible such problems as the present one would have seemed then! "I know every bit of what you read by heart.
It's our next Sunday school lesson."

"So it is."

"Do you think now that it would be best for me to go away?" She looked up into his troubled face.

"Well, see, we'll see," he murmured, then tried to turn her mind toward other things. "Come, now; let's find out whether you do know your Sunday school lesson. How does it begin?"

There was no answer. She had turned away with trembling lips. "And Ruth said—" He took her two small hands and drew her face toward him, meaning to prompt her.

"Entreat me not to leave thee," she pleaded. Her eyes met his. His face was close to hers. The small features before him were quivering with emotion. She was so frail, so helpless, so easily within his grasp. His muscles grew tense, and his lips closed firmly.
He was battling with an impulse to draw her toward him and comfort her in the shelter of his strong, brave arms. "They shan't!" he cried, starting toward her.

Polly drew back, overawed. Her soul had heard and seen the things revealed to each of us only once. She would never again be a child.

Douglas braced himself against the back of the bench.

"What was the rest of the lesson?"
he asked in a firm, hard voice.

"I can't say it now," Polly murmured. Her face was averted; her white lids fluttered and closed.

"Nonsense! Of course you can.
Come, come; I'll help you." Douglas spoke sharply. He was almost vexed with her and with himself for the weakness that was so near overcoming them. "And Ruth said, 'Entreat me not to leave thee'—"

"Or to return from following after thee"—she was struggling to keep back the tears—"for whither thou goest I will go, and where thou lodgest I will lodge. Thy people shall be my people and thy God my God." She stopped.

"That's right; go on," said Douglas,
striving to control the unsteadiness in his own voice.

likely be hangin' round de parsonage tonight, 'stead ob stayin' in de Sunday school room, whar dey belongs. Las' time dat 'ere Widow Willoughby done set round 'all ebenin' a-tellin' de parson as how folks could jes' eat off'n her kitchen floor, an' I ups an' tells her as how folks could pick up a good sugar meal off'n Mandy's floor too.
Guess she'll be mighty careful what she says afore Mandy tonight." She chuckled as she disappeared down the walk to the Sunday school room.

Polly stood motionless where Mandy had left her. She hardly knew which way to turn. She was happy, yet afraid. She felt like sinking upon her knees and begging God to be good to her, to help her! She who had once been so independent, so self reliant, now felt the need of direction from above. She was no longer master of her own soul. Something had gone from her, something that would never, never come again. While she hesi-tated Hasty came through the gate, looking anxiously over his shoulder.

"Well, Hasty!" she said, for it was apparent that Hasty had something important on his mind.

"It's de big one from de circus," he whispered excitedly.

"The big one?"

"You know—de one what brung you."

"You don't mean?" Polly's question was answered by Jim himself, who had followed Hasty quickly through the gate. Their arms were instantly about each other. Jim forgot Hasty and every one in the world except Polly, and neither of them noticed the horrid Miss Perkins and the Widow Willoughby, who had been crossing the yard on their way from the Sunday school room with Julia.
